GREAT THINGS START HERE

Andrew Roper
Managing Director

Every week, hundreds of eager, curious new students come through our doors, looking for the key to their future. They recognise that to be taken seriously on the international stage, they have to be able to use the world's no.1 international language.

Well, they've come to the right place. In all of our schools, our teachers and support staff have a wealth of international living and working experience. They can easily empathise with students and the difficulties they regularly face. But the caring doesn't stop when our students leave the classroom.

As well as our wide range of English classes, we also organise an array of social activities which provide our students with the perfect opportunity to meet one another, socialise, take part in fun activities, see fascinating places and of course, practise their English.

The heart of England

With a large student population, there is a fun and social atmosphere in this beautiful English city. Small and convenient, it is easy to find your way around by foot and you will quickly get to know the best local restaurants, bars and cafés!

Housed in delightful Georgian buildings on a quiet street in the city centre, our school – formerly known as English Language Centre York – is the ideal location from which to explore this ancient and intimate British city.

With a wealth of academic and student welfare experience, the school celebrates 20 years of teaching in 2018, and is the only Equals-accredited school in York.

Library and study centre

Our York school offers a multi-media centre and library for quiet and group study, with a large range of educational resources to help you with your studies, as well as a selection of DVDs.

The room is also a great break-out area for students to work on class projects!

Classrooms

There are 23 classrooms in the school, divided between four school buildings on either side of a quiet street. The classrooms are of a good size and many include interactive whiteboards or projector screens.

Student common room

Students normally socialise in the common room, playing table tennis or chatting over coffee between class.

Improving their English has boosted career prospects for lots of our students. At BSC, our qualified, experienced teachers can give you the tools to take the next step.

Meet Paul Driver

He is a teacher/teacher trainer at BSC Oxford and has helped to introduce cutting edge technology throughout the school.

Technology is becoming more mobile, more invisible, more humanised, and is democratising the way we use classroom space.

Paul, what's your role at British Study Centres?

I'm a language teacher, but also do teacher training – mainly tech courses, refresher courses and continuous professional development for in-house staff, as well as day-to-day IT classroom support for teachers.

What do you enjoy most about your job?

The variety. I love my teaching time and trying out my ideas with students. This feeds into my teacher training. I also like trying out new things and keeping up-to-date with technology.

How has the school changed in the last year?

In just a year, the school's infrastructure, environment and training have all been changed to embrace mobile technology in the classroom. Teachers have adapted and learned what they can do in the classroom.

Apple TV in every Oxford classroom

Using iPads in class

Will people notice the impact of mobile technologies at school?

Definitely. We've got fixed, class and student iPads, and augmented reality posters around the school – great for posting social programme information as well as sharing student work.

Have there been any changes to the classrooms?

We had interactive whiteboards, but what we really needed were projectors. Now every classroom has got a projector connected to Apple TV, so teachers or students can stream anything from a mobile device – perfect for peer correction and presentations.

What's the future of technology in English language schools?

At the cutting edge, we're definitely moving towards mobile technology, and there are no more clunky machines in classrooms. The humanisation of technology is the future trend.

English for life

General English courses form the foundation of your English knowledge, and give you the space to analyse, question and practise. They include speaking, listening, reading, writing and pronunciation. The aim is to help you use newly acquired skills in real-life situations, immediately.

Small groups

Classes are small and multinational, with an average of 11 students and a maximum of 14. This enables our teachers to focus on your individual aims and interests, and help you improve your English in a way that is relevant to you.

A warm and friendly environment is essential for effective learning. Our commitment to this and high standards of achievement, ensures that your time at the school is a rewarding experience.

Individual assessment

You will be individually assessed both on arrival and throughout the course. We give you a written and oral test on your first day and monitor your progress regularly. If you have achieved satisfactory attendance (90%+), you receive a certificate and a report signed by Academic Management at the end of your stay.

These are very useful tools to show employers when looking for a new job.

Highly interactive lessons

We use a communicative approach to teaching. Lessons are fun and interactive with a high level of student involvement focusing on the ability to communicate successfully in English. As well as using stimulating and contemporary materials, we employ a variety of different methodologies and technologies.

Real-world tasks

We make the most of being in an English environment, using class trips and external resources as much as possible to provide a personalised, authentic language learning experience. We also use a range of contemporary authentic and stimulating materials, including news articles, videos and radio interviews.

Track your progress

It's important to remain motivated while you study. Weekly progress tests and regular 1-to-1 tutorials with your teacher allow you to discuss progress and get advice.

In class, feedback is an essential part of the learning and reflection progress. The flexible approach of our teachers means that correction can cover grammar, pronunciation, or any other relevant aspect of English which helps you improve.

myBSC – online study platform

Outside the class, you can use myBSC, our online virtual learning environment. Here you can supplement classroom learning with extra tasks and practice. This is available to you from the moment you book until 3 months after you have left the school.

High-quality teaching

We keep our teaching team up-to-date in a number of ways with the latest ideas in EFL methodology. We have regular staff meetings and training sessions to introduce new ideas and techniques, as well as to discuss the particular needs of any students who might be having problems. We believe that these regular meetings are essential in order for us to provide a high level of professionalism and care for students.

Nationality mix

We are very proud to have students from over 95 countries at our schools! This is a great opportunity to get to know people from different cultures and make your stay at British Study Centres a truly unforgettable experience.
